

AG Captain's Career Course

Schedule of Courses

Links to the current course schedules are below.

Officer Class Schedule FY10

Officer Class Schedule FY11

Prerequisites

The Commandant of the Adjutant General School has mandated that all officers attending training at the AG School must read and become familiar with the publications below prior to their arrival at Fort Jackson.

FM 1-0, Human Resources Support

Knowledge Collaboration Center (KCC) Access

Officers scheduled to attend school during the current FY will have access to their class Knowledge Collaboration Centers (KCC) NLT 30 days prior to the course report date. Additionally, class advisors will notify officers once class/course specific information (reporting instructions, schedules, etc) is posted to the KCC and access is granted to scheduled attendees. Your class numbers below are linked to your KCC. Your KCC contains:

Specific instructions.

Reporting instructions.

Class advisor information.

Course Description

To prepare human resources (HR) professionals in the Adjutant General's Corps to perform duties at tactical and operational levels that include serving as HR staff officers (S1) at Battalion and Brigade levels, or as HR planners, integrators, and coordinators at Division and Corps levels. Additionally, to prepare officers to serve in theater HR structures planning, coordinating and executing postal, R5 and casualty operations or as company commanders in TDA organizations. The primary emphasis of training is on providing tactical and operational level HR training to AOC 42B officers at the company grade level.

This course prepares officers to develop, interpret, plan, integrate, coordinate, and implement the Army's HR programs and policies for the military and civilian work force at the Battalion and Brigade levels. The training focuses on HR core competencies, to include: Personnel Accounting operations; unit level casualty operations and systems; personnel readiness management (PRM); unit readiness; personnel accounting and strength reporting; postal operations; essential personnel services; unit level HR and commanders' programs; HR information management systems; human resources management operational planning; and joint doctrine overview and personnel services. Additionally, training focuses on developing advanced analytical and problem-solving capabilities, managerial techniques, and character attributes required in a good leader.

General Information

The AG Captain's Career Course is a challenging course. It will enhance your technical knowledge and leadership skills while emphasizing the rigors of physical fitness and training in units. A faculty team leader will facilitate about 40 percent of your instruction. Students will present the other 60 percent of the course material in a small group setting. Within the first 72 hours of the course, you will take a record Army Physical Fitness Test (APFT). The AG School has a school house Warrior Training Area (WTA) that is utilized during field exercises. Multi-echelon training during the FTXs is the AG School Goals. Soldiers from AIT training and the NCO Academy train together in the field setting. The career course students will function as Battalion and Brigade S1s.

The AG Captain's Career Course is a five month course where students work with their peers; deal with both common core material as well as the AG Wartime functions. This is a great opportunity to learn from peers in a setting that is conducive to learning and mentoring.

AGCCC- active component is a 5 month, PCS move. For those interested in researching or acquiring an apartment prior to arrival, click on the link to take you to a local listing of previously used apartment complexes.

<https://www.us.army.mil/suite/doc/8275742>

Staff Ride: The Battle of Kennesaw

One major event CCC students attend is the Staff ride. The Staff Ride was instituted by the Army Service and Staff School at Fort Leavenworth in 1906 as a means to instill in Army officers a sense of their professional past and to provide them timeless insights into the relationship between military doctrine, operations and tactics, and the experience of soldiers at war. The Staff Ride became a required and permanent feature of the Adjutant General Captains Career Course in 1987. The AGCCC studies the Battle of Kennesaw that took place in the closing years of the American Civil War in May-July 1864.

HR Professional Reading List